

Don't Play The Fool With the TV and Internet

by Zac Poonen

This sermon emphasizes the importance of recognizing potential sources of spiritual danger in modern technology like television, the internet, and other devices. While these tools have benefits, they can also lead to worldly influences and distractions that hinder spiritual growth. The speaker cautions against being naive or careless with these technologies, likening them to plug points that can be useful but dangerous if mishandled.

Scripture: Proverbs 4:23, 1 John 2:15, Philippians 4:8, Romans 12:2

Topics: "Spiritual Discernment", "Navigating Technology Wisely"

Transcript

And I believe that's one of the main reasons why we don't have a spiritual generation growing up that values God more than everything else in this world. I don't believe merely by getting rid of television you get rid of the world. You can get rid of it and still have the worldly people long before television was invented, thoroughly worldly people.

So I'm not saying the solution is to get rid of television. There may be some good things you can get from it. But all I say is, remember that there is a potential source of danger there.

It's not just television. It can be your computer with the internet connection. So the solution is not to get rid of it because it has some advantages.

But remember that that is a source of danger. Don't play the fool with it. It's like, it's like a plug point.

Electricity is very useful, but I don't go putting metal things in.
