

God Is Looking For Those Blameless

by Zac Poonen

This sermon emphasizes the concept of being blameless before God, highlighting the distinction between perfection and blamelessness. It stresses the importance of confessing wrongdoings and seeking forgiveness promptly to maintain a blameless status, even though imperfections are acknowledged. The speaker challenges the notion of perfection within the church and encourages continuous growth towards perfection.

Scripture: Job 1:1, 1 John 1:9, Matthew 5:23, Philippians 3:12

Topics: "Blamelessness", "Continuous Growth in Faith"

Transcript

I say Heavenly Father, today Job could not call him father, I can call him dad. You're looking for somebody blameless, not perfect, I'm not perfect, I'm very aware I'm imperfect, but I can be blameless, means anything my conscience has told me is wrong, I have immediately confessed it. If I've hurt somebody, I've asked forgiveness as soon as possible, that's blameless.

If you have not asked forgiveness from people you have hurt, I want to tell you in Jesus' name, you are not blameless today, you can sit in CFC or any other church for the rest of your life, you are not a blameless person. You're disobedient to the very first thing that God has said He wants from man, blameless, not perfect. Some people teach, some people say, that CFC teaches that we are perfect, I say look at the pulpit, does it say we are perfect? I say no, it says there, let us press on to perfection.
